SPECIAL INTEREST GROUPS

The CAUTHE organisation has encouraged the formation of Special Interest Groups within its membership. These groups provide an opportunity for interested researchers to discuss their research in an open and informal manner with the opportunity of creating future research collaborations. There are currently three Special Interest Groups supported by CAUTHE:

The Special Interest Groups are programmed to meet for a two hour session on Wednesday February 11 from 4.30pm.

There will also be an opportunity for conference delegates to form discussion groups additional to the existing Special Interest Groups during this time.

Further details will be provided closer to the conference.

For general information about the CAUTHE Special Interest Groups, contact Brent Ritchie - email: b.ritchie1@uq.edu.au
